COLONIAL THEATRE.

"The Lure," Magnificent Five Reel Shubert Metropolitan Feature.

The second mammoth multiple-reel feature of the week at the Colonial Theatre is the attraction today presented by the wonderful A. Shubert all-star cast under the title of "The Lure." This film has been a wonderful dramatic success in all of the large cities of the United States, but because of the marvelous opportunities offered by nature in the way of natural backgrounds and surroundings, the film becomes at once a more delightful presentation. Featuring Claire Whitney, the clever little blonde woman of the big Shubert cast, the story tells of a pretty little shop girl, because she is unable to earn wages sufficient to properly care for her invalid mother, accepts the offer of one of her fashionable patrons to do light work in one of the hours at the home of this same handsome woman. Once in the house she is trapped, and held prisoner. A dashing young detective while in search of another young girl similarly trapped, discovers Sylvia and is horrified until told of the trick. The wonderful scenes in the house are thrilling indeed and because of the exceedingly careful handling the whole play becomes at once a striking warning to young people, and a revelation to the older ones. An exceptionally strong support in dramatic success in all of the large cities of the United States, but because of the marvelous opportunities offered by nature in the way of natural backgrounds and surroundings, the film becomes at once a more delightful presentation. Poisoned by Mercury.

A scientific investigator of Europe has discovered a new method of destroying fungus disease and household pests by the use of mercury. In enclosed spaces the mercury is employed in the form of vapor. In other cases it is injected in metallic form directly into the circulating fluids of the plant. The growth of this plant is not only not disturbed, but is in most cases actually assisted. When a tree is treated the process is completed with a stout three-millimeter auger holes are bored in the lower branches. From five to seven in an oblique direction and passing through the pith. These holes are then filled with mercury by means of an ordinary "dropper" after which they are made airtight with "tree-wax" or some similar substance. From two to seven grammes of mercury are required for an inoculation. The effect is quickly observable and continues for a year or more.—Exchange.

He Does the Fighting.

Mr. Asquith, like Mr. Churchill, is for fighting to the "bitter end," if England has to fight alone. More important to hear from K. of K. —New York Sun.

NORWICH TOWN

Memorial Service for Mrs. Thomas J. Wattles at First Congregational Church—Meeting for Study—General News.

There was a memorial service for Mrs. T. J. Wattles with a large attendance at the First Congregational church yesterday afternoon. At this service there were sincere expressions from hearts full of appreciation of all that Mrs. Wattles has been in her church relations, in the Lathrop Memorial and Home Missionary societies. As one after another told of all her life had meant to them, of neighborly thoughtfulness in times of sorrow and trouble, of her ever making others happier, of appreciation of visits to elderly people and friends of many years, of how much the people at her summer home on Fisher's Island thought of her, and of her interest in them and in their church, of thankfulness for the record of such a life, it was a simple, spontaneous tribute such as few lives have inspired, for all her work was done in the service of others. Fittingly it can be said of her, as was said by another, "Her life was Christianity," and fittingly can be said of her, "We beseech thee, O God, to answer her prayers for us." The service closed with singing for All the Saints Who from Their Labors Rest.

Meet for Study.

The meeting for study of The Child at Ward No. 10, the fifth chapter of Child in the Midst, was held Wednesday afternoon at the First Congregational chapel under the leadership of Miss Susan C. Hyde. During the opening exercises Sherwood Eddy's wonderful work in China was referred to, and a letter was read describing the progress of the accumulation of the golden anniversary gift for buildings at the mission station.

The discussion upon the fifth chapter in the text book brought out the fact that cruelties in child worship of gods were still taught and practiced in the Orient. Miss Hyde told of these customs prevailing when she was living in Adikar. There was much interest shown when the fact was stated that owing to the undue pressure of God's work in the church, and in this country could not always attend the church services. At the Free Academy towards the end of the week longer and more difficult lessons are given so that sometimes the hours of Sabbath rest are taken for weekday work.

Local Briefs.

Sunday afternoon there will be a religious service at the Sunday school at Scotland road hall.
There will be the devotion of the stations or way of the cross at the Heart church this Friday evening.
Miss Sarah Corey has returned to Danville, R. I., after visiting her brother, William Corey, of Wightman avenue.

Mrs. Frank E. Sterry of Lee avenue was in Williamstown Thursday, where she attended the funeral of her cousin, Henry Allen.

In a letter received here from a friend in California the statement was made that 13,000 people arrived in Los Angeles from the east on the last week and 30,000 the next day—excursionists to see the exposition, coming by the southern route.

England's ancient "dew ponds" have their modern counterparts in a rock of Gibraltar where drinking water is obtained by the condensation of the abundant dew in especially prepared basins. The primitive process consists in making a hollow in the ground and filling the bottom with dry straw, over which is placed a layer of clay. On a clear night the clay cools very rapidly and the dew is condensed into water in the basin. The pond is improved by putting a layer of asphalt or Portland cement under the straw. At Gibraltar the present practice is to use wood instead of straw and sheet iron instead of clay.

In an unsuccessful effort to find water for the town a boring to a depth of 4,489 feet was recently carried out at Spur, Tex. This boring gives information concerning the stratigraphy of the region. There are three well marked divisions. From the surface down to a depth of 1,250 feet are found sand, clays, marls, beds of gypsum, anhydrite and salt. Including three beds of pure salt, ten, five and nine feet in thickness. The next 2,850 feet consist of dolomite, with strata of anhydrite, sandstone and shale. Below 383 feet are limestone and shale.

Among the rare specimens not open to public inspection in the Harvard zoological museum is what is asserted to be the largest frog in the world. It weighs about six pounds, is twenty-seven inches long from tip to toe and of a slaty black color. Its web feet are equal in size to those of a large swan. Only three of its kind have ever reached the United States.

Mr. Asquith, like Mr. Churchill, is for fighting to the "bitter end," if England has to fight alone. More important to hear from K. of K. —New York Sun.
